DETAILED ACTION

- 1. This action is responsive to communications: application, filed on 02/15/2002.
- 2. Claims 1-23 are pending in the case. Claims 1, 17, 19 and 23 are independent claims.

This application was filed on 02/15/2002. No claims have been amended.

3. The present title of the application is "Multi-Resolution Geometry".

Claim Rejections - 35 USC § 103

- 4. The following is a quotation of 35 U.S.C. 103(a) which forms the basis for all obviousness rejections set forth in this Office action:
  - (a) A patent may not be obtained though the invention is not identically disclosed or described as set forth in section 102 of this title, if the differences between the subject matter sought to be patented and the prior art are such that the subject matter as a whole would have been obvious at the time the invention was made to a person having ordinary skill in the art to which said subject matter pertains. Patentability shall not be negatived by the manner in which the invention was made.
- 5. Claims 1-23 are rejected under 35 U.S.C. 103(a) as being unpatentable over Glassner (US 5,428,717).

As per claim 1, Glassner teaches the claimed "method for creating a three-dimensional visual representation of an object having multiple resolutions" comprising the steps of:

"retrieving coordinates of vertices for the object" (Glassner, fig. 18 a-b, and col. 16, lines 3-64);

determining a collapse order for the vertices identified in the vertex list (Glassner, fig. 18 a-b, and col. 16, lines 3-64);

reordering the vertices identified in the vertex list responsive to the determined collapse order (Glassner, S430); and creating a vertex collapse list responsive to the collapse order (Glassner, S440).

It is noted that Glassner does not explicitly teach "the vertex collapse list specifies, for a target vertex, a neighbor vertex to collapse to" as claimed. However, Glassner's replacing the polygons of a plurality vertices with a single triangle with three vertices (step S440, figure 21) suggests the vertex collapse list specifies a neighbor vertex to collapse to as claimed. Thus, it would have been obvious to a person of ordinary skill in the art at the time the invention was made to configure Glassner's vertex collapse list as claimed by specifying the vertices of the polygon which are collapsed into one of the vertices of the triangle as claimed.

using the vertex collapse list and a level of detail to identify at least one display vertex of the object (Glassner, S420); rendering the display vertex to produce the three dimensional visual representation of the object which Glassner does not explicitly disclose; however, it would have been obvious to one of ordinary skill in the art at the time the invention was made by rendering the display vertex to compute the display screen pixels that represent each primitive in order to produce the three dimensional object.

Claim 2 adds into claim 1 the steps of determining a collapse list process which Glassner suggests in figures 23A-23C.

Claim 3 adds into claim 2 the steps of computing visual distortion factors which Glassner suggests in figure 23A.

Claim 4 adds into claim 3 the steps of computing an area change factor for each collapse path which Glassner suggests in step S400, figure 23A.

Claim 5 adds into claim 3 the steps of computing a volume change factor for the selected collapse path which Glassner suggests in figure 23C.

Claim 6 adds into claim 5 the steps of computing a volume which Glassner suggests in figure 23C.

Art Unit: 2671

Claim 7 adds into claim 2 the step of receiving an input from a user specifying a priority weight for a visual distortion factor which Glassner teaches in figure 21.

Claim 8 adds into claim 2 the steps of determining a collapse value for the selected collapse path which Glassner suggests in figures 23A.

Claim 9 adds into claim 2 the steps of determining a set of collapse paths which Glassner suggests in figure 25.

Claim 10 adds into claim 2 the steps of displaying the object before and after being collapse which Glassner suggests in figures 18-19.

Claims 11-13 add into claim 1 the steps of specifying the minimum number of vertices, the resolution levels and the attributes of the vertices which Glassner suggests in figures 8 and 16.

Claims 14-16 add into claim 2 the texture map, normal map, and color map of the vertices which Glassner suggests in column 1, lines 30-63.

Due to the similarity of claims 17-18, 19-22 and 23 to claims 1-16, they are rejected under a similar reason.

Accordingly, the claimed invention as represented in the claims does not represent a patentable distinction over the art of record.
